How do we encourage our students to read? How do we prompt them to be better readers? How do we help them enjoy reading and even become lifelong readers? The answer may be simpler than you think. This inservice will provide practical, simple ways to boost engagement and skills for every reader in the classroom. Models and resources that entice reluctant readers, lift reading skills across levels, and encourage students to want to read more will be shared. Participants will leave with resources that can be implemented tomorrow and help every student to succeed as a reader.

Participants will gain knowledge and skills in:

1. creating a culture of reading in the classroom and school;
2. building school communities of lifelong readers;
3. using tech tools like Flipgrid, Recap, Padlet and more to help develop classroom libraries to engage readers;
4. helping readers document their thinking;
5. structuring and planning for book clubs;
6. assessing readers in user friendly and effective ways.

All inservices are held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. unless otherwise noted.
Enjoy lunch on your own!
