In recent years, extensive research has shown that in schools where social and emotional learning (SEL) is a priority, students feel safer and demonstrate higher academic achievement, less disruptive or risky behavior and an increased ability to manage stress and depression. Comprehensive schoolwide SEL implementation requires an infrastructure where all stakeholders understand the value of SEL, where SEL is woven into the fabric of the school day and where existing programs are honored but enhanced by this new emphasis. In this inservice, participants will learn the procedures for creating and implementing an infrastructure in a school to initiate, guide, manage, and sustain positive changes in SEL. Participants will evaluate strategies to adapt to changes in mandates and other conditions at their schools.

Participants will gain knowledge and skills in:

1. the value of SEL to stakeholders,
2. an infrastructure that sustains SEL implementation,
3. a comprehensive district wide approach to addressing whole child education,
4. challenges and proven approaches for handling those challenges.

All inservices are held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. unless otherwise noted.

Enjoy lunch on your own!
