Learn practical, ready-to-use strategies to encourage frequent, purposeful, and manageable “quickwrites” in all content areas. Engage students in effective and time efficient experiences needed to develop higher order thinking skills, content understanding, and accountability. This fast-paced online inservice will model engaging research-backed strategies for using writing to enhance students’ understanding of your content while supporting current literacy skills.

Participants will gain knowledge and skills in:

1. the power of frequent, low-stakes formative assessment and “effortful retrieval;”
2. student participation in and accountability for the learning process;
3. higher order thinking skills in all subject areas;
4. quick, clear, and productive feedback on student thinking and learning.

This inservice is online from 3:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.
