Once a student is identified as in need of intervention, a meeting should be held. However, meetings are often unproductive and not results-driven. Staff leave without a clear action plan, assignments, or next steps. This online inservice will discuss the fundamentals of having a strategic meeting that is data-driven and results oriented.

Participants will gain knowledge and skills in:

1. exploring research based frameworks on running effective, results driven meetings;
2. understanding the five core components to running effective meetings;
3. applying research-based meeting frameworks to the NJTSS model;
4. reviewing appropriate NJTSS forms and intervention plans that help to guide results oriented meetings.

This inservice is online from 9:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m.
