This inservice will provide the “Do’s,” “Don’ts” and “Do Betters” of inclusion techniques and strategies. Offering differentiated instructional strategies that connect to the characteristics and struggles that students with specific disabilities and their staff encounter in inclusive classrooms will be discussed. Adapting instructional units with lessons that infuse evidence based interventions for core planning, instruction, and assessment in literacy, mathematics, and across disciplines will be shared. Learning how to replace teacher anxieties and apprehensions with tangible mindsets and responsive inclusive interventions that promote positive attitudes, inclusive research, specially designed instruction, and multi-tiered systems of collaborative support will be presented.

Participants will gain knowledge and skills in:

1. differentiated instructional strategies connecting the characteristics and struggles that students with specific disabilities and staff encounter in the inclusive classroom,
2. instructional units with lessons that infuse evidence based interventions,
3. teacher anxieties and apprehensions and responsive inclusive interventions.

All inservices are held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. unless otherwise noted.

Enjoy lunch on your own!
