Teaching students with ADHD can be hard, frustrating and disheartening. “Once and done” solutions for ADHD problems in the classroom simply do not exist. The good news is there are many great strategies and tools to help you reach and teach your students with ADHD. These strategies also help students help themselves to manage their daily difficulties. This in person inservice will focus on what to do and which strategies to use under what circumstances.

Participants will gain knowledge and skills in:

1. student specific problems,
2. strategies for specific target areas,
3. teaching students to use “when-then” goals,
4. ADHD background knowledge,
5. general strategies for self-regulation and reducing reactive behavior.

This inservice is in person from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.
